What steps can ordinary people take to help to protect wildlife in your country?
The nature and its wildlife is full of wonders, spectacular landscapes, and the flora and fauna. The wildlife in our country mostly consists of animals and the plants. Every year, humans put both of them in danger, and the situation gets worse and worse each year. The heads of wildlife protection companies do everything they can, and we, the ordinary people, must help them to protect it with all heart. But what can we do?
Firstly, we should not hunt down and kill the animals or at least do it less often. Sure, we need to do it to earn food or clothes made out of animal skin, but it results in animal extinction, which leads to the total loss of endangered species.
Secondly, we can plant the trees. The trees are an important part of ecosystem. We and other animals need to breathe.
Lastly, we should not burn the rubbish, because it negatively affects the air.
In conclusion, we must not do anything that affects the nature, because the consequences can be very sad.
